

Blog del Narco is a blog dedicated to providing information and news related to narco traffic in Mexico. Narcoblogs provide information from anonymous sources, which is extremely useful considering the context of war on drugs in Mexico and the risks taken by journalists to cover it.

As an International Crisis Group's initiative, we have worked on a project on armed groups operating in Mexico in the past years. As part of this project, we scraped the most recent two years of text from Blog del Narco, using Beautiful Soup (Python). The code I used is available here.
